ABOUT ME.

My name is Gerald Torres. Having studied Multimedia Computing in University, I have been able to gain and develop the fundamental skills and knowledge required within the Web Development industry. My hunger for expanding my learning has lead me up to date with the latest and ever-growing web development technologies such as HTML5, CSS3 and JavaScript which are essential for any website.

As a Web Developer, I have a passion for ensuring the user has great User Experience and I believe this is the most important requirement of any project. I believe that excellent interactivity between the user and the website is what makes it a success.
